This order establishes:
- Pads stay sealed until owner-authenticated TLS and a live PIN
- A wrong PIN spends a chip try before the secret is checked
- Pad keys exist only after KEM decapsulation; the secret key is gone before XOR
- Pad keys also need the device fill identity
- Device and chip cursors must agree; they never rewind
- Used or skipped pads are erased
- A bad pad tag yields no output

